In most of the world's sprawling cities, the neighborhood youngster is often shortchanged when it comes to space in which to play.

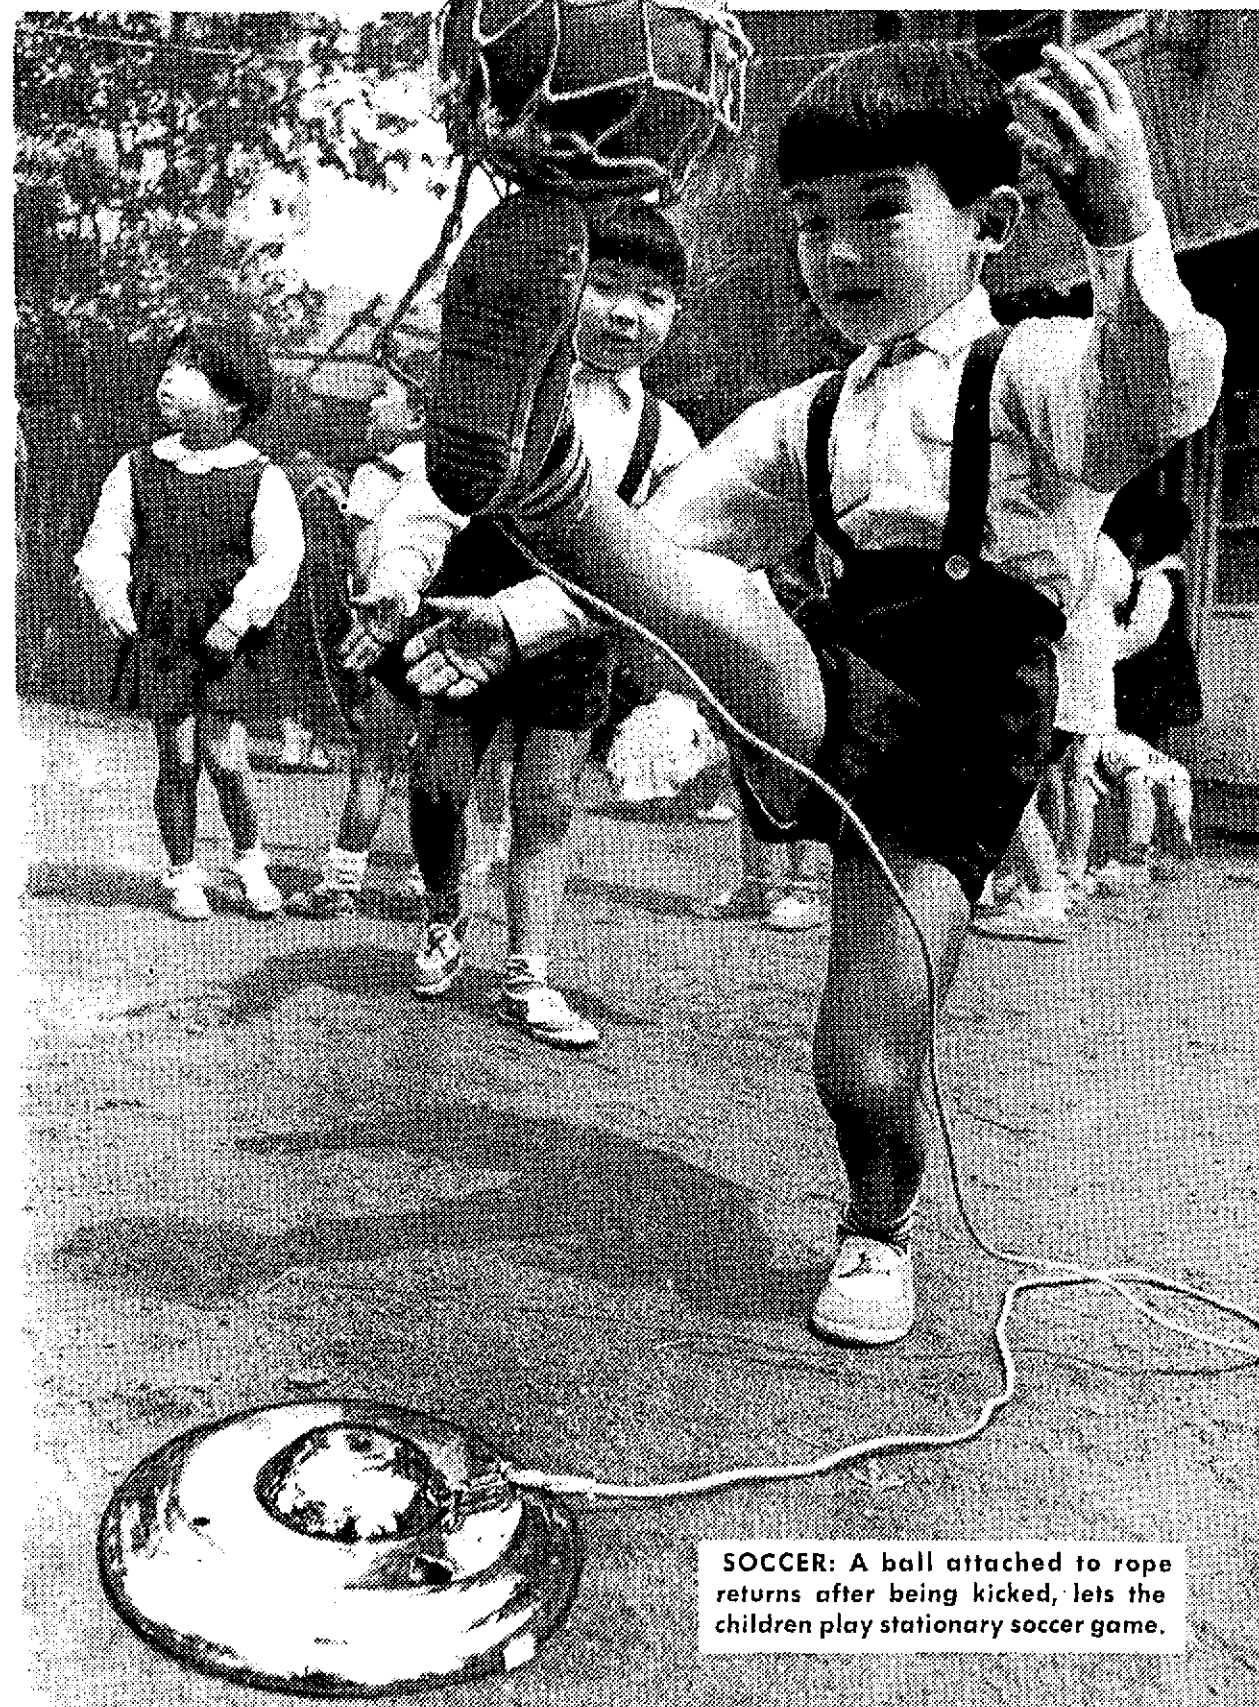

To overcome this space problem some cities are experimenting with vest-pocket parks — small play areas constructed on vacant lots.

In Tokyo, Japan, a kindergarten principal has gone one step further. He's designed some unique and inexpensive equipment to ensure that the children in his school get plenty of exercise in the limited playground area he has available.

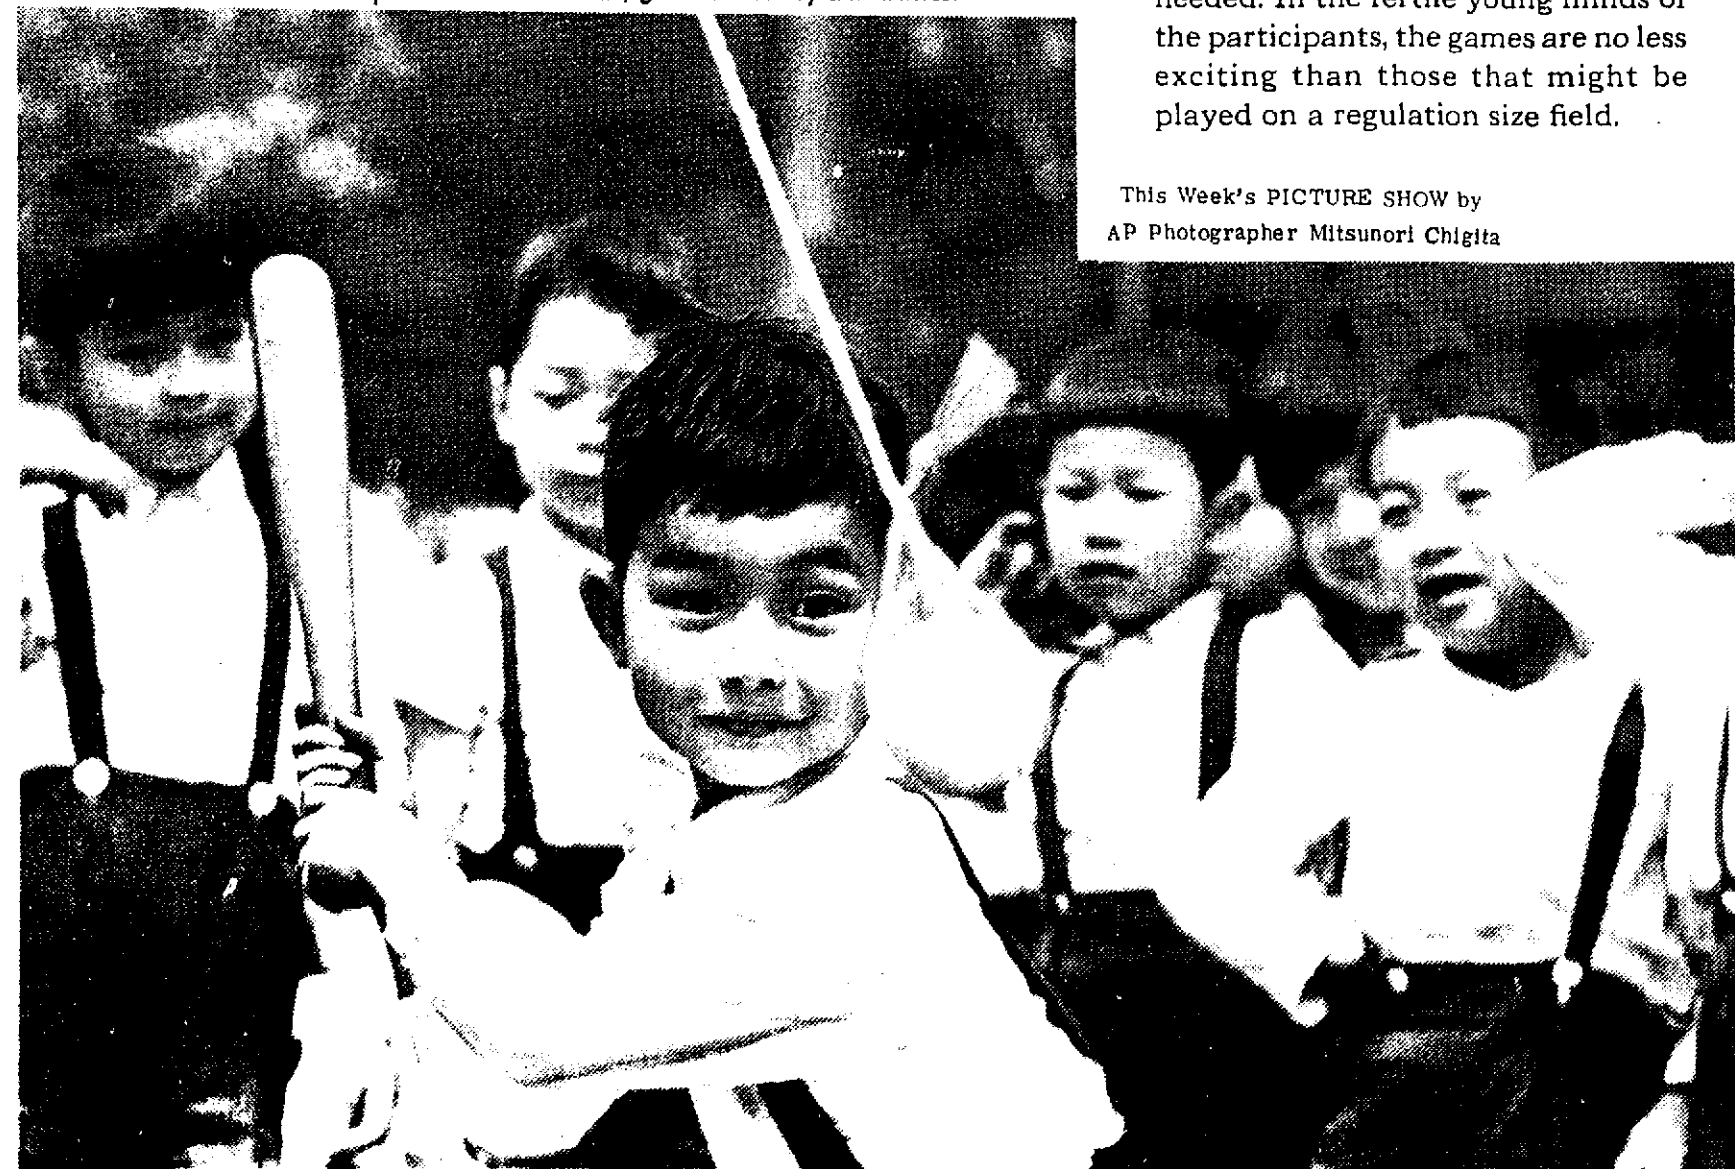

Mr. Kogo Kato, the designer, points out that these new tools not only provide adequate exercise for his 300 pupils but, more important, the children enjoy using them.

Baseball, soccer and track events are all possible now in areas that take up only a fraction of space normally needed. In the fertile young minds of the participants, the games are no less exciting than those that might be played on a regulation size field.

The Johnson-Nugent Wedding Report

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson thinks of her daughter Luci as at once a sprite and the "family philosopher."

Says Mrs. Johnson: "She comes in spreading gaiety and fun. The atmosphere always clears up when she walks in. We'll miss her."

This gay spirit will be missed, of course, because she is marrying Patrick J. Nugent, 23, of Waukegan, Ill., himself a happy type though evidently a good deal more reserved than Luci.

Mrs. Johnson is extremely pleased over her daughter's marriage. But she says she knows that there will be many times, in the weeks and months ahead, when she will be "suddenly swept with loneliness" as she peers into Luci's empty bedroom on the second floor of the White House. And she adds:

"Luci is the philosopher of the family. I'm going to miss those late midnight talks."

Luci herself muses a little sadly over the prospect:

"It's difficult to realize that things just won't be the same."

Luci's parents have always stressed her appealing femininity. They seemed to assume she would be the first to be married. Yet Lynda, her older sister, would have pre-empted that honor had she not broken off her engagement to a young naval officer in early 1964.

Luci is a dark-haired girl with dancing blue eyes, always outgoing in manner, lithe and athletic in frame. She has borne her spotlighted White House years with poise and growing maturity. The constant shadowing by Secret Service agents assigned to her never appears to have unsettled her.

Luci and Pat had their first date around the time he was graduated from Marquette University in Milwaukee in June, 1965. Their close bond developed only as mutual interests began to be clear.

Pat's friends consider him friendly, capable, but reserved. "Nuge," as they called him in school, kept close to his chest his visits to Luci at the White House and in Texas.

Once when he left for Washington, he gave someone a they are entitled to have under various education programs.

This fall at the University of Texas, as he and Luci take up residence in their rather small "old brick" duplex house (rented) in Austin, Pat will begin studying for a master's degree in business administration, his prime interest.

Luci has had a year of nursing school at Georgetown University in Washington. Now she will transfer to Texas, but that school has no nursing courses. She says only that she will seek an undergraduate degree in "I don't know what."

Luci indicates they have somehow saved enough to carry them through their first year or so together, even though Pat presumably can earn money only in the summertime. It is a fair guess that, like many a young beginning couple today, they will get a healthy boost or two from their parents.

When they settle down in Austin, Luci's spotlighted existence as the daughter of Lyndon Johnson will not end. Secret Service agents will continue to guard her 24 hours a day. Cameras will be close by whenever she is making the slightest news.

But friends of Luci and Pat think their personal makeup and the record of their young lives both suggest that they will bear calmly the burden of attention and gain for themselves a reasonably good chance at normal living.

Letters For Luci

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As her wedding day nears, Luci Baines Johnson keeps leading through hundreds of ness as well as humor. "A young Shawnee, Okla. girl chimed in:

"I believe that you are the personification of all the qualities which a young person should possess. Thank you for being so conscientious about your position as the President's daughter."

Luci evidently has managed to convey the kind of warmth that establishes a common bond with many young people who are total strangers. Wrote a Canton, Ill., teen-age girl:

"You give me the feeling of being a fellow 18-year-old girl, friendly to all."

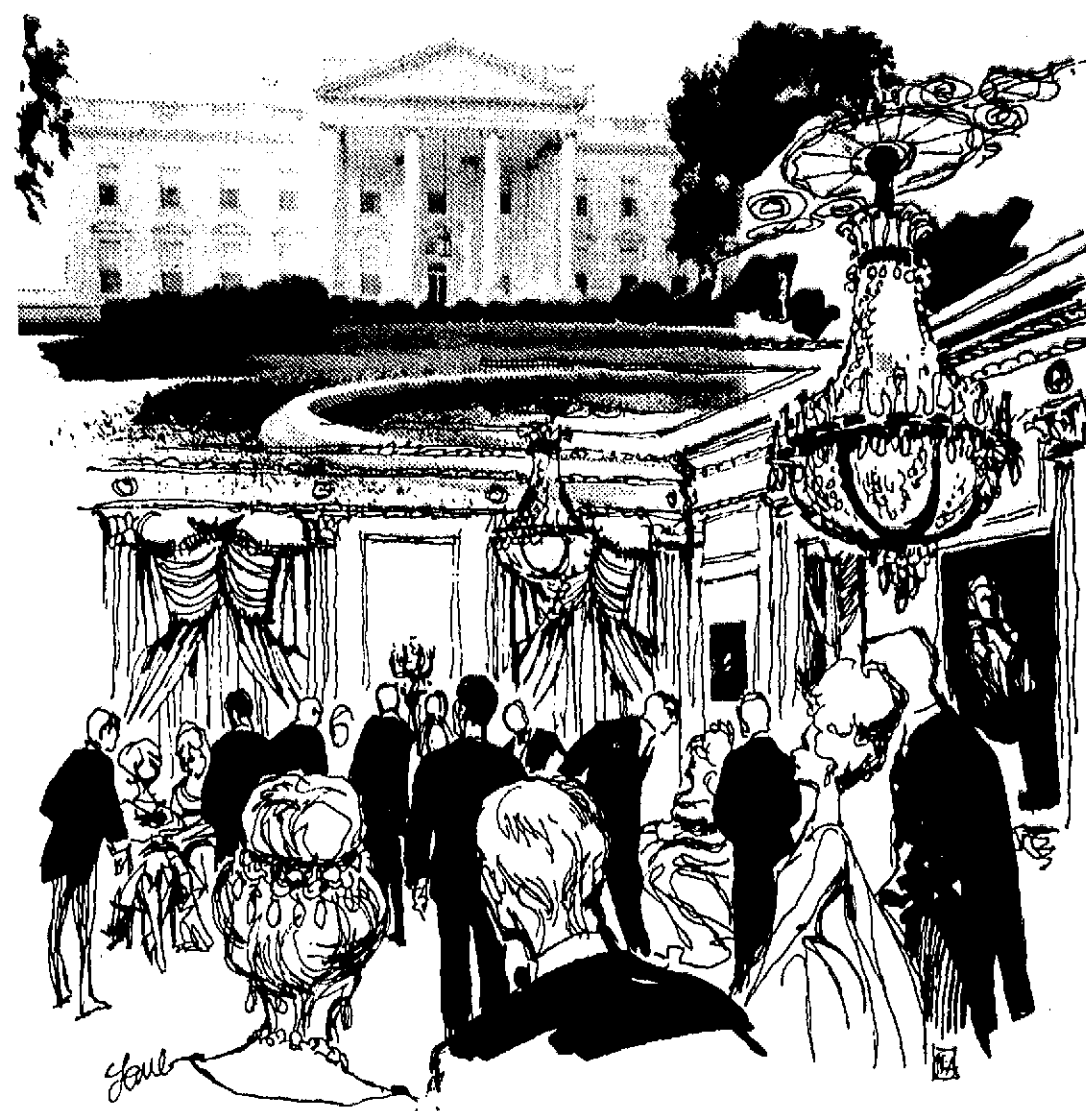

Before Luci's engagement, the general tone of the letters she got was perhaps a shade less kind. People would write to chide her for not getting better grades in her years at Washington's National Cathedral school. If the White House later announced her grades were up, she was accused of boasting.

What the more critical types are writing her now is a White House secret, though one silly sample came to light. Someone who confused Luci with her older sister, Lynda, wrote to urge her not to marry "that actor, George Hamilton."

Earlier this year, it became evident that Luci's fiancé, Pat, was getting fairly sharp mail from some people, mostly because at 23 he is not in the regular U.S. armed forces, even though he did a two-week stint with the Air National Guard in Georgia just before the wedding and will serve in the Guard until 1971.

One letter sent his way said he could best endear himself to the American people by "requesting assignment to active military duty in Viet Nam."

Overwhelmingly, Luci's own letters come from cheer-letters from Americans who seem to think, among other things, that she is an admirable example for teen-agers and a good daughter to her father.

Since her engagement last Christmas Eve to Patrick J. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill., Luci has received an average of more than 200 letters a week. The White House staff consciously holds out "kooky" ones from the visitor's view. Those he can look over are generally warm-hearted, encouraging and complimentary. And they make up the great bulk of the total.

Faithfully, Luci pens brief answers to all, usually limiting herself to the comment that the writer has helped to add meaning to this important turn in her life.

From a girl in Cincinnati came this letter to buck up the bride-to-be:

"I am writing this note to congratulate you on your upcoming marriage, and to commend you on your upholding of the reputation of the American teen-ager. You have not only caused a new, warm light to fall upon us, but you have also forced older Americans to look upon us with serious ful well-wishers, many of them youngsters from 7 to 13, or very old people. Many write because the wedding date, August 6, has some special meaning for them, too.

God's Word Says Come

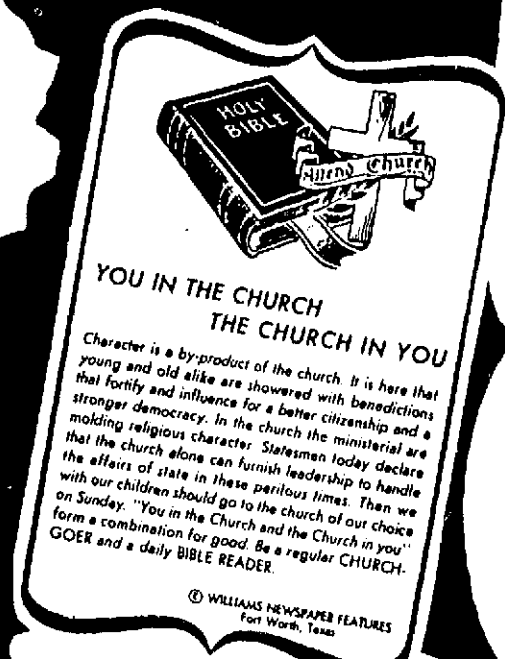

DESPONDENT

— life savings are gone. Physical comfort for these two, during old age, went out with the trash can. Disillusionment reigns here.

These harried, cross, impatient faces reveal the pang of personal loss. It would be well for this household, as well as yours, to realize how futile things of the world really are compared to the things of God. When crisis like this tear at your very soul, — when your nerves are worn from daily reversals, — when tragedy all but overwhelms you, — do you ever stop to experience the Comfort of Divine Presence? Try going to church for a cure. You'll take on a different outlook. Money, and lands, and oil wells will pass away but the things of God are Eternal.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions, stronger democracy, in the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we on Sunday, "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Hope Star SPORTS

District Play Begins Here on Monday

Hope will host the District Boy's Baseball Association of Arkansas Little League Tournament, beginning Monday, Aug. 1, at 5 p.m. All Tournament games will be played at Legion Field inside Fair Park because of the excellent lighting facilities and the additional seating capacity. Portable bleachers will be set up behind the first base foul line and the outfield fence. The regular Little League fence will be set up at a distance of 185 ft. from home plate. All Little League concession equipment will be moved to the big park and a very adequate public address system installed, that can be heard by players and spectators.

The tourney will consist of 14 of the top teams in Southwest Arkansas. These will not be All-Star teams, such as the Hope team that is now playing in the Nationally sponsored Little League tournament at Arkadelphia. All teams competing will be first and second place winners in their respective leagues, and the winner here will represent this District in the State tournament at Little Rock, beginning August 8th. If the local All-Stars continue their winning place at Arkadelphia, the players on this team will not be able to compete in the BBAA meet here because they will be representing the Hope League in the Nationally sponsored State Tournament. Nevertheless, Hope will definitely have two representatives in the tournament.

Three games will be played, beginning at 5 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday nights, 2 games, starting at 6 p.m. on Wednesday night, 2 games, starting at 6 p.m. Thursday night, the 2 semi-final games, starting at 6:30 p.m. on Friday night and the final game at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday. In the event of rain out games times will be set earlier.

Teams entered include Jinkins Lbr. Co., Collins and Williams, Wake Village, Ledwell's, Carpenters Union, Womacks and College Hill of Texarkana, Midwest Dairy and Hope Auto Co. of Hope, Nashville PCA, DeQueen Lions, Horatio Lions and the Okay Cementers. Okay and PCA were the top 2 teams in the Nashville Little League.

Baseball fans are invited to Legion Field next week for a full 6 days of Baseball.

Baltimore's Lead Now Is 13 Games

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer Luis Aparicio is losing his personal battle, but he's helping the Baltimore Orioles win the war.

Aparicio, overshadowed by Baltimore's power brigade of Robinson, Powell and Robinson, played his part again Friday night as the Orioles defeated Minnesota 3-0 and took a 13-2 game lead in the American League, their biggest bulge of the season.

Aparicio vowed before the season started that he would do his best to win the stolen-base title he lost last year after winning it in his first nine years in the league.

"We don't never get started last year," the 32-year-old Venezuelan explained. "Nothing serious — mumps, cut on a finger, things like that. But I used to playing every day. I come in for a couple of games, then hurt, then come back. I don't get started."

The fleet little shortstop really hasn't gotten started this year on his march toward regaining the stolen base crown. With just 60 games remaining, he has stolen 16 bases and trails six other speedsters, including Chicago's Tommie Agee who leads with 29.

But the Orioles haven't needed the stolen base as a weapon in the drive toward their first pennant. They have so much power all they need is a few men to get on base.

And that's where Aparicio's value lies.

He collected two hits against Minnesota, raising his season total to 116, fourth best in the league, and scored one run for a total of 71, a figure topped in the 2 Coaches Are Named for U. of A.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Two new head coaches and an assistant were named to the University of Arkansas athletic coaching staff today by Athletic Director John Barnhill.

Barnhill announced the appointment of Danny Mason as varsity golf coach, Dr. Rodney Ryan as varsity tennis coach and Jim Bone as assistant athletic trainer.

Mason, a former All-America collegiate golfer, has been golf coach the last two years at Texas Tech. Ryan is associate professor and chairman of the university's recreational program. And Bone, a former Razorback baseball letterman, has been trainer and baseball coach at Permian High School in Odessa, Tex.

Braves Win From Giants, Pirates Gain

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer In Spain the rain falls mainly on the plain but in Atlanta, it was Herman Franks.

There was Franks doing a mental rain dance in the San Francisco dugout Friday night when the Georgia heavens opened up as his Giants led the Braves 5-3.

For 72 minutes, Franks watched the rain and the scoreboard, which already showed Pittsburgh's come-from-behind 5-3 victory over Philadelphia. Then the precipitation stopped and instead of a rain-shortened 5-3 victory, the Giants wound up with a 7-5 setback.

The Pirates' victory and San Francisco's loss left the Giants a full game behind Pittsburgh in the National League race.

After the rain stopped, Rico Carty walloped a three-run homer for the Braves, giving Atlanta a 6-5 lead, Willie Mays' 23rd homer tied it for the Giants in the ninth but the Braves pulled it out in the bottom of the ninth on singles by Carty, Ed Mathews and Denis Menke.

And to make matters worse for Franks, the hero for the Pirates was ex-Giant Jose Pagan. Pagan ripped a bases-loaded, two-out double in the bottom of the eighth that drove in three runs and beat Chris Short.

Pittsburgh's winning rally started with one out, when pinch hitter GENE Michael singled, Manny Mota and Gene Alley singled for one run and after Roberto Clemente forced Alley, Donn Clendenon walked, loading.

Then Pagan unloaded them. Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs downed the New York Mets 7-4, Cincinnati edged Houston 4-3 and St. Louis blanked Los Angeles.

In the American League, Baltimore shut out Minnesota 3-0, Kansas City whipped Detroit 4-1, the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 2-1, Washington swept a double-header from Boston, 13-4 and 6-5 in 15 innings and California edged Cleveland 2-1.

Three Met errors and two wild pitches by reliever Jack Hamilton contributed to a three-run Chicago eighth that beat the Mets. Glenn Beckert's two-out, bases-loaded single broke a 4-4 tie.

Ron Swoboda had a three-run homer and Larry Elliot a bases-empty shot accounting for all the New York runs. Ron Santo connected for the Cubs.

Jaster's shutout was the 12th this season against the Dodgers — most suffered by any team in the majors — and extended the Cardinal left-hander's personal runless string against them to Jaster allowed only five hits, none until the sixth. It was the fifth straight victory for the Cardinals and their 11th triumph in the last 12 games.

The Reds beat Houston for the first time this season with a four-run fifth inning as Jim Maloney went the distance for his 11th victory.

Maloney scattered seven hits and struck out 13.

Sandy Joins Antifight Mob

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In Rudy Sawyer, a promising welterweight, Sandy Saddler saw a way to make the transition from fighter to ex-fighter comfortably.

The retiring world featherweight champion would begin his new life as a fight manager first for Sawyer. It was a way to stay in the mainstream of boxing and it was a way to be of use and earn a living.

Now Rudy Sawyer is dead. With him died Sandy Saddler's care for boxing.

"I had been on top for so long," Saddler said, "that I forgot what the bottom was like. Only it had gotten worse."

"Kids were poorly trained. And the only desire they had was for fast money. Nowadays a kid calls himself a fighter so he can get on welfare to keep from working."

"Sawyer had talent, though. He gave Benny Paret a great fight one time. But he didn't want to work or train. All he wanted was money and good times."

"I got him a nice fight once and he got beat when he should have won. Found out the next day he'd been out foolin' around all night."

"About two weeks later he got himself killed, stabbed to death, right in mid-town Manhattan. Right then I decided I'd had it."

"Boxing gave me the chance for success but I wasn't going to give it the chance to drag me down."

Today Saddler will have nothing to do with the sport, except occasionally attend a championship fight that looks as if it might be a good scrap.

"You'd think in modern times boxing would get better. But no, it just keeps on sinking. I spent 20 years of my life in fighting and sometimes I think I wouldn't care at all if boxing died out altogether."

Saddler doesn't blame Sawyer's death on boxing of course. He rather abhors the conditions in the fight game today that allow the Sawyers into the sport.

"If boxing's going to get cleaned up, it has to be done on the inside by boxing people themselves. Now it's full of bums. It makes me sick."

"There were plenty of bad people around in my day, too, and for years beyond that. I was no saint when I was a kid."

"The big difference was that back then nearly all the fighters had desire. The money wasn't so much that you could forget about just plain ol' winning. You had to want to be a fighter."

I tried with Sawyer, but you can't teach nobody desire."

Sandy Saddler

he's the most important ball player in the world," said Swift, "and the next thing you know you've got yourself a team."

The Tigers, to a man, like the feeling. Particularly enamored by it are shortstop Dick McAuliffe and third baseman Don Wert. McAuliffe explained it:

"A lot of people are picking us to win the pennant because they say we have balance. Good pitching, good hitting, fielding."

"Fine. But it's all got to be integrated. It's starting to jell on this club. This is where Charley and Swiftly and the other coaches have done a whale of a job."

"It's just a shame that Charley had to get sick. Everybody was getting his point—that every man has to do his job, hustle and show some spirit, and then things fall into place."

"This is great for players like Don and myself. We're never going to set the record books on fire, so playing in this kind of atmosphere helps us tremendously."

"The challenge now is to keep it up, not let down."

McAuliffe and Wert perhaps personify the point Drensen has tried to make since he took over the managership in June, 1963.

The two infielders are roommates on the road. Their wives are close friends. They came up through the Detroit farm system together. And there are striking similarities in their baseball abilities.

Tom Isn't Retiring Sort

AKRON, Ohio—(NEA)—The name was buried so deep in the list of final scores at the PGA golf championship, you could hardly read it, let alone spell it. It's Tom Weiskopf (wise-cough), and belongs to a curly-haired, tall young pro who walks with a duck's splayfoot and hits a golf ball longer than Jack Nicklaus.

He has never won a pro tournament, though he tied Doug Sanders at Greensboro this year. But give him time. He's only 23, and every pro you talk to around a tournament points him out as the best of all the young kids on the PGA tour.

Which doesn't bother Tom. He relishes the idea.

"Actually," he says, "it gives me confidence to know the other players think that much of me. They come up and congratulate you, and you know they're the best, and it makes you feel good. It flatters you."

"Ken Venturi has called me the longest, most consistent driver on the tour. I think Jack is."

Jack is Nicklaus, after whom Weiskopf is patterned. Like Jack, he's a product of Ohio State. In fact, Nicklaus was the man who assured Tom he could make a go of it on the PGA tour when Weiskopf started thinking about it two years. Like Jack, he's a boomer off the tee with a solid short game to match.

But Nicklaus is burly and phlegmatic, and Tom is slim and intense. Nicklaus was a rich man—in guarantees—from the time he teed off in his first pro tournament, the Los Angeles Open in 1962. Weiskopf started as a complete nonentity, not backed by anyone. That's how he wanted it.

"I even talked to Mark McCormick," says Tom, "and he said it would be a good idea for me to try it on my own. I'd seen how fellows like Tony Lema got tangled up and had to buy up their contracts from backers."

McCormick is the young lawyer who has parlayed Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer into a minor mint. The PGA insists that a young player wishing to start on tour show $5,000 in the bank. Weiskopf had managed to save up $2,100 as a pro assistant, after he'd quit school.

The dichotomy between golf and college was solved one spring when Tom had a class in a big room on the first floor with a seat near the window. As soon as the professor called the roll and turned his back, Tom ducked out the window and hitched a ride to the golf course on the women's physical education class bus.

"It was really funny," he muses. "I never got caught—but I failed the course."

It costs a bachelor like Weiskopf $325 a week, he estimates to live in style on the tour. He hasn't been caught short yet in his second pro tournament, at Tucson, he tied for 10th and made $1,100. He has been out of the money only four times since then.

"I'd like to have what you're going to make in the next years," the late Tony Lema told him.

"I'd like to win the four major titles," says Tom candidly which is a measure of his confidence since he hasn't ever won as much as Cow Pasture Open. "I'll retire right then."

Of course, winning is an ingrained family trait. His mother the former Eva Shorb, won eight straight Akron district women's championships. His father was a scratch player.

"I guess," he grins, "I just selected my parents right."

The rest just came naturally, better than I do my own and vice versa.

"I don't know whether Don and I had anything to do with it or not, but this is a feeling that has spread all around the team. Everybody helps every body, in some way."

"When Charley had to leave, it was, of course, a big blow. I was afraid the roof might fall in but we seemed to recover quickly and keep on going. Swiftly kept right on top of things."

"The fans in Detroit—even the sportswriters—seem to sense it, too. I've seen more sportswriters this year than I've ever seen before."

"And we've been drawing 16-18,000 for night games during the week. Even on night when it rains."

Mutual admiration society Detroit-style. What a love affair a pennant would bring!

The Unwritten Classic

If somebody doesn't do something soon, we are going to have to compose a Standard Heat Wave Editorial, to be run every few days as expression of our discontent about nature's whim.

Such an editorial would include the traditional shouts of man at the mercy of the elements: harsh words about the weatherman, anguished pleas to Apollo, Diana, et al, reflections about the delights of conditioned air, witty quotations from Mencken and Wilde.

We would like to write that editorial. Undoubtedly it would be a small classic of the journalistic art. But it's too hot to write editorials. If the page is blank tomorrow, well, we've gone fishing. — Greensboro (N.C.) Daily News.

No Need to Worry

"Success is never attained by staying awake at night, but by staying awake in the daytime." Some people dodge unpleasant facts. Their nights are often sleepless. Others boldly face their difficulties, analyze them, isolate them, and seek to solve them. Their rights are usually restful.

Sometimes a problem is as good as solved by the realization that it has no solution; but a common failing is to worry endlessly over a condition that cannot possibly be corrected. Instead of accepting the reality of the situation, people will take their troubles to bed with them and hear the clock strike every hour in the night.

The price of sound sleep is mental alertness. The man who has his affairs in hand, who accepts losses before they are forced on him, who thinks faster than his competitors, can usually sleep well in good or bad times, comments a writer in Bagology, who concludes by saying that worry never helped anyone — except a competitor. — Biloxi-Gulfport (Miss.) Daily Herald.

A Civic Splash?

A sport assistant city attorney said yesterday that pretty secretaries at the court house can't cool their feet in the Civic Center fountain and reflecting pool. He says it's unsanitary. Perhaps the city should try the solution used in neighborhood parks, where spray pools have replaced the old wading pools. Why not a Civic Center spray pool to refresh the tired working girl?

This would also provide a noon-time spectator sport for the tired working man. — Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune.

Roar of the Waves

If no news is good news, perhaps the following shouldn't be reported. But then, as another saying has it, forewarned is forearmed. Anyway, one manufacturer, not content with leaving bad enough alone, is now marketing a sound amplifier for transistor radios.

It's a horn-shaped object, looking somewhat like a miniature ship's ventilation funnel, made of polyfoam plastic, which is stuck in the sand with the radio placed in the opening. It's designed to enhance reception and protect the radio from sand and moisture. How involuntary listeners are to protect themselves is not specified. — Waynesboro (Va.) News-Virginian.

Austerity in Britain Has Become Law

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
LONDON (AP) — The British government today announced a massive plan for a prices and wages freeze to be fully enforced by law. The economic policy is stiffer than any imposed on prices and wages in World War II or in the years that followed.

The proposals designed to save the pound sterling were promptly assailed by industry leaders and there was grumbling from unions.

There will be a general standstill on prices and incomes until the end of this year, followed by a six-month period of "severe restraint."

The proposals, contained in a white paper, will be written into the Labor government's projected prices and incomes bill aimed at stabilizing the economy.

At least six million workers — more than one in four — will lose pay increases currently due them. These include railway, electrical, gas and building trade workers and doctors.

The government will have powers to reverse prices or pay increases they consider unjustified after July 20.

A minister will be able to direct that any price or charge should be reduced "to a level not lower than that prevailing" before July 20 — the day Prime Minister Harold Wilson first announced new austerity measures.

The government wants the bill to be law Aug. 12 at the latest. The law will automatically lapse after 12 months.

Details were worked out at a series of Cabinet meetings just before Wilson left for Washington Thursday. Economics Minister George Brown outlined the plan to Labor and management Thursday night.

Wreck Is Believed to be 'Spy Plane'

ORURO, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivian and U.S. officials probed the wreckage of a plane in the hills of western Bolivia today for clenching evidence it was an American U2 reconnaissance jet that strayed more than 3,000 miles from Florida with its pilot apparently unconscious.

Officials said there was little doubt it was the missing plane.

The jet plunged to earth Thursday afternoon, apparently from a great height. Wreckage was strewn over a wide area. The pilot's body was found, badly battered by the crash.

Officials said farmers who found the wreckage west of this city near the Bolivian border with Peru and Chile and 140 miles south of La Paz turned in papers identifying the pilot as Capt. Robert D. Hickman, 32, of Alexandria, La.

The U.S. Defense Department had identified Hickman Thursday as the man at the controls of the high-flying U2 that failed to follow its intended course off the coast of Florida and flew on the plane took off Thursday morning on what a spokesman said was a routine mission from Barksdale Air Force Base.

The Pentagon said it assumed the pilot lost consciousness, possibly from lack of oxygen, and the plane flew on under the guidance of the automatic pilot.

The last reported radar contact with the plane was over Panama. The plane had fuel aboard to keep it aloft until midday.

To reach the spot where it crashed, the U2 apparently traveled about 3,200 miles on a straight-line course from Florida and presumably passed over Cuba, Colombia, Brazil and Ecuador, as well as Bolivia and Panama.

The crash site is near the town of Llanquerra in a remote area with few access roads. The Bolivian government sent search teams, accompanied by U.S. Embassy officials, to the area.

There was no word at what altitude Hickman was flying. The U2, with its wingspan of 80 feet and short body, has a capability of flying higher than 90,000 feet and travels at more than 500

Chas. Gough Replies to Editorial

Editor the Star: In answering your editorial of July 18th, concerning local Baseball game reports, it is not my intention to criticize your newspaper or any member of your staff. I'm aware that I'm not qualified to criticize where I'm ignorant. I much prefer weighing the facts before I speak out too loudly.

It is my understanding that an editorial is merely a comment, opinion or statement of policy; therefore, you have every right to write as you wish, and exercise what is left of one of our basic freedoms. It seems that some of the major wire services have forgotten that this freedom ever existed.

It is regretful that 1966 has been such a tough and tedious period for you and your staff, otherwise you might have taken time to do a little research and made your opinion of the "small fry games" informative as well.

First, May I explain, that the kid Baseball games are not entirely under the auspices of the tax-supported Parks and Recreation Department, nor is the City, in any way, responsible for reporting, game results. True, we did do much of the groundwork in organizing all the Baseball Leagues, as we did in many other volunteer workers eventually took over these duties. How else do you start a recreation program from scratch, and how else could you ever expand a small city program? Sure, we've also assumed some of this responsibility all along the way, but dedicated and unselfish volunteers that actually operate all of our Baseball leagues.

The League officials, team managers, umpires and Ladies Auxiliary each work an average of 15 to 20 hours a week to give every kid in this area a chance to play Baseball. All the money for operating the leagues comes from sponsor's fees, concession receipts, donations, etc., to the tune of $1500 to $2500 a year, and it doesn't cost the player one red cent, except for glove and shoes. That's as it should be for maximum participation.

After spending over 200 volunteer hours over the 8-week season, plus pre-season practice and team organization, a team manager had to shoot all the Little League team pictures. He also has a couple of post-season tournaments.

As the "Sharp Pencil" man of your publishing outfit, maybe you can tell me "with authority," why this man and other recreation volunteers shouldn't be as immune to nighttime assignments on the playground as your cameramen. I've seldom seen a Star cameraman immune to an after-five assignment at a bathing beauty contest. I'm no professional photographer or journalist, but from an amateur's eye, I think that I can see what causes the cameramen's susceptibility to this type of after-hours work.

I appreciate your statement that the municipal playground plan is magnificent, and I more than appreciate the help that the Star and KXAR have given us in building this program. Without your help, it would have been a slow go. But it has taken a lot of hard work by a lot of people, over a period of 13 years. To put us where we are today, and we're still a long way from home. Wouldn't it be much nicer to work together to further improve our present set-up than to kick one another by "passing the buck"? It never hurts to take a good look at what the other guy is up against before unloading on him, even if you hold the big stick.

Also, it has taken a broad-minded and progressive city government; one that does an excellent job of making the most of every tax dollar. In fact, you might look quite a long while before finding a better, in any size municipality. I'd hesitate to say that there is a single member of our City Board of Directors that benefits in any way, other than feeling the satisfaction of making Hope a better place to live. They get the same pay as the Little League volunteers. And I'm not "polishing apples". I earn my pay and that's the only way I'd take it, otherwise I might have left off about 2,500 night assignments myself over the past 13 years.

There is definitely an end to this so-called tax-supported program. The City's responsibility ends with the pre-season and pre-game maintenance. Anything else our Department does is to help the kids or the volunteers, and we draw the same pay after the whistle blows as everyone else. I regret that we're limited in the help that we can give, but our program has grown out of proportion. We've got to drop the details and try to maintain the facilities. If you have any doubts about this being a full-time job, feel free to join me. Leave out theories and opinions and put in facts and realities and find a better City Government or Recreation program in this State, or any other, for the same amount of money spent, over an equal period of existence.

Don't sweat your tax dollar. It would be real hard to break it down to what it cost each individual. Divide it by 360 kids and 30,000 spectators annually, and you could scarcely see it.

Incidentally, one of our kids has turned in many game reports, all written up, along with weekly batting averages, team standings, etc.. You might have put these in that unused space. If you'd like it some other way, let us know, we're not perfect either.

Please forgive any sarcasm or undue criticism on my part. I'm certainly no authority on newspaper publishing. My intention has never been to hurt people, but to help them. When I lose that basic attitude, I'll hand up my spikes.

Sincerely,
CHARLES GOUGH

Democrats Fearful of Farm Revolt

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune said today that U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman told Democratic congressional candidates at a closed meeting they must overcome deep resentment against the administration in farm areas.

The newspaper, in a story from Washington by its staff member Aldo Beckman, quoted Freeman as saying: "There is reaction far deeper and more bitter than I could ever have anticipated. Farmers know what a tremendous minority they are and they are very sensitive."

The story said Freeman told the candidates they should not try to handle questions from voters on the increased cost of living.

It quoted the secretary as saying: "I've been trying to figure out an answer to that question for six years. Slip, slide and duck any question on higher consumer prices if you possibly can. Don't get caught in debate over higher prices between housewives and farmers. If you do, and you have to choose a side, take the farmer's side. Its the right side, and, besides, housewives aren't nearly as well organized."

Rockefeller Group Film for State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller and four young Arkansans were scheduled to leave today for California and production of a television special called "Agriculture, U.S.A."

Rockefeller, Republican candidate for governor, was taking along two young agricultural students, plus the new Miss Arkansas and the 1965-66 state Dairy Princess.

The students are Danny C. Denton of Sparkman and Harold Riggan Jr. of Corning. Miss Arkansas is Miss Mary Craig of Batesville and the dairy princess is Diane Hall.

Crime Rate Higher Than U.S. Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI reports the nation's crime rate increased by 5 per cent in 1965 — faster than the U.S. population growth. The increase was sharpest in the suburbs — 8 per cent — and in Western states — 10 per cent.

The annual crime report said serious crimes occurred at a rate of five per minute last year with more than 2.78 million such crimes reported. The increase fell from the 11 per cent gain reported a year ago, but the FBI said since 1960 serious crimes have increased 46 per cent while the population has grown by 8 per cent.

Murder, rape, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny and auto theft are classified as serious crimes.

Computers to Teach Class of 120 1st Graders, in West

By LEIF ERICKSON
EAST PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — The reading and arithmetic teacher that 120 Brentwood School first-grade pupils will meet in September is a computer system developed at a cost of $3 million in talent, time, and hardware.

The East Palo Alto kids will be pioneers — learning all or most of their reading and arithmetic under computer control for a full school year.

The Stanford-organized project will be the first study of its scope in computerized instruction. Many short-term test studies have been made.

But none has yet been attempted over a full school term with all of an elementary school's first-year pupils relying almost entirely on computer lessons to learn how to use words and numbers.

"This is instruction in a very rich form," said Prof. Richard C. Atkinson, psychologist at the Stanford Institute for Mathematical Studies in the Social Sciences.

"It is geared completely to the individual student," he said. "We feel we will come close to the ideal tutoring situation — with the best teacher doing the best possible job for each child."

With a million-dollar supporting grant from the U.S. Office of Education, a new building will house a specially designed IBM computer and a classroom with 20 learning stations. Each is equipped with earphones, microphone, typewriter keyboard, two TV-like screens, and a pencil light.

Settled down before his own screens, with earphones on and pencil light ready, a child will learn the meaning, sound and look of the word "bag" this way:

The film screen will show a picture of a bag. An adjoining

Russia Charges U.S. Aggression

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko charged today that the United States might use a Viet Nam peace conference to cloak further aggression.

At a news conference at the close of a week's visit to Japan, Gromyko said if a new Geneva conference were called "the United States might utilize it as a screen behind which to further its aggression."

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato in talks with Gromyko sought to persuade the Russians to reverse their refusal to reconvene the 1954 Geneva conference, of which they are co-chairmen with the British. But Sato was no more successful than British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

And he said the only solution to violence is for Negroes and whites to learn to live together. "We have to put ourselves in the place of the Negro," he said, "and understand his inclination to blow off."

At the White House, Bill D. Moyers, press secretary, cited Johnson's speaking tour of the Midwest last weekend and said: "I think the President has communicated his views very thoroughly and carefully on the subject."

If he touches the right word with his pencil light, the computer voice says, "Good. Bag. Do the next one."

If the answer is wrong, an arrow points to the right word while the voice says, "No. The word that goes with the picture is bag. Now touch and say bag."

The Brentwood children will move in groups of 20 from the four regular first-grade rooms for 30-minute sessions at the computer stations.

A bright kid may run through an average 30-minute lesson in 10 minutes. With the computer system he can keep going as fast as he is able. A child with unusual problems may have to go through a lesson four times before he masters it. Remedial instruction is under way immediately for those who need it.

As each child performs his lessons, the computer records a complete history of how he does. A detailed check thereby is provided on each pupil's progress and on the effectiveness of the lessons.

The writing, recording and film preparation plus the computer programming to meet all conceivable responses has been a five-year effort, Atkinson said. "It was a horrendous job — the spelling out in utter detail," he said, with a grin.

"But once you've developed an ongoing system, it will be available forever — for every one."

"We expect to discover a whole new view of what curriculum is like. We know we don't know everything about the learning process."

Atkinson declared that classroom teachers need not fear the prospect of computers taking over their jobs.

Tells LBJ to Go See Riot Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Barry Goldwater has suggested President Johnson visit major cities "and point out the danger that these riots may blow up into something that we cannot control."

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, said Johnson could spend two or three weeks "talking common sense" to rioters. Addressing the National Press Club, Goldwater declared, "The Negro has been promised the moon in civil rights and it hasn't been delivered."

And he said the only solution to violence is for Negroes and whites to learn to live together. "We have to put ourselves in the place of the Negro," he said, "and understand his inclination to blow off."

Miami's Papers in One Plant

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Miami News announced today it had reached agreement with the Miami Herald to have the Herald take over the printing, circulation and advertising functions of the news.

James M. Cox Jr., publisher of the News, said the news editorial functions would remain independent of the morning Herald.

He said the News would continue to publish its afternoon papers six days a week, but that the Sunday edition would be eliminated.

"It is no secret that the Miami News has lost heavily for many years," Cox said in a statement read to the News staff by editor Bill Baggs.

The new arrangement, Cox said, would allow the News to retain complete editorial freedom while strengthening its present headquarters and move into the Miami Herald building sometime after 30 days, said managing editor Ed Pierce.

The News' daily circulation is 120,000. Circulation of the Herald, the biggest morning newspaper in the southeast, is 340,000. The Herald is owned by the Knight newspaper interests, which also have daily papers in Charlotte, N.C.; Detroit, Mich.; papers in more than 20 cities have operating agreements similar to the one worked out between the Herald and the News.

"These have resulted in strong, independent papers," Baggs said.

Air Strike Settlement Up To Vote

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson quickly wooed negotiators to a tentative airline strike settlement, but there are signs of deep concern today whether the 35,000 striking mechanics will approve it.

Negotiators worked feverishly to wrap up the proposed contract for a vote by the strikers Sunday that will determine how fast the five strikebound airlines get their planes back in the air.

"This settlement will not be inflationary," Johnson said in announcing the agreement in a nationwide television radio broadcast barely 12 hours after calling negotiators in the 23-day strike to the White House.

His comment reflected the touchy question of the agreement's economic impact, but the government's biggest worry at the moment was to win the ratification vote.

Details of the agreement were a tightly guarded secret and comments from both union and management appeared directed primarily at ending the strike.

"We feel sure it will be ratified by our membership," said President P.L. (Roy) Stenmler of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

Chief negotiator William J. Curtin for United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines expressed pleasure at the settlement of the "difficult and prolonged" strike.

But no planes can fly until the proposal is accepted by the union members who have thrown contract agreements back in the teeth of their leaders in the past.

Based on the last reported union demand and airlines' offer, the contract seemed almost certain to provide wage increases of about 4 per cent annually over a three-year period.

While this is in excess of Johnson's yardstick limiting average wage increases to 3.2 per cent a year, the President noted his guideline policy left room for bigger hikes in special circumstances.

"The fact that productivity has advanced so rapidly in the airline industry means, according to all participants in the settlement, that this settlement will not be inflationary," Johnson said.

Some observers saw this as a hedge against later claims that the union had won its economic argument that workers deserve a fairer share of airlines profits.

"This settlement will not contribute to any increase in prices," Johnson said.

Police Halt Rioting in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Legal action has stalled racist rallies in Baltimore, but a white supremacist warns, "You'll be seeing more and hearing more of us."

Negro and white youths threw bottles, rocks and metal pipes at each other in a 20-minute battle Friday night on North Castle Street, a predominantly Negro section of East Baltimore.

What apparently started as a small fracas among four youths turned into a larger skirmish when about 20 white youths charged into the area.

A 33-year-old man and a 41-year-old woman received minor cuts and were treated at a hospital. Police reported one arrest.

Meanwhile, city police turned out in force to insure that the National States Rights Party forbidding rallies would be obeyed. There was no rally.

Officials of the organization had indicated earlier they would abide by the injunction, issued Friday.

Five persons were charged with rioting after white youths roamed through Negro neighborhoods Thursday night following an anti-Negro rally by the party — the third such rally in four nights.

The warning that more would be heard from the party came from Connie Lynch, an itinerant preacher who was one of the five persons charged with rioting in presentments returned by the Baltimore grand jury.
